Activities of Day Center in Stocks that Have Been Strong During Pant Year—Reported Insue of New York Central Bonds Causes Large Sellings—Sterling Exchange Higher.

New York, Jan. 14.—Yesterday's advance was continued to-day, even if somewhat abated toward the close by the usual end-of-the-week realizing sales, and it was obvious that a great change for the better had come over Wall street's general feelings. Market activity was centered, as it usually has been in the past year, in the Union Pacific, Reading, and United States Steel preferred, but great strength was also shown by Lehigh Valley and other stocks.

Talk of a large issue of New York Central bonds in the future caused some little selling of that company's stock and an erratic feature of the market was Goldheld Consolidated, which was at one time very weak, although it recovered later. This stock is, however, one in which there is no general trade in which there is no general trade in which there is no general trade in the tittle attention.

Sterling Exchange Higher.

Sterling exchange was a little higher during the day, and wheat prices were off and cotton fairly steady, but the real feature of the day's business was the extraordinary bank statement, with its showing of an increase of nearly ils. Showing of the average surplus reserve and of more than $15,000,000 in the average surplus reserve and reserve, bringing the total reserve figures up to very high figures for this season of the year.

While it is probabily true that credit for while it is probabily true that credit for prices of the leading shares, should be given to the partial retirement of the short interest in the market, it must be conceded also that general financial sentiment was improved, which led to no little substantial buying of stocks. In the first tirree days of the week prices of re-urities of at least for stocks seemed unlimed to receive a little. Profits were taken on a prett, large scale following them to repeat a little. COTTON MARKET.

Quotations furnished by W. B. Histo, at U.S., members of the New York Stock Exchange, Hibbs Building.

New York, Jan. 18—The market was very dull to-day and devoid of any particularly new festures. There was a decline of 5 to 8 points in the early trading for the March, May, and July options from last night a closing. This was due to some further scattered local Wall street and Southern seiling. But on the simp trokers who usually regressen the big synt dealers remeased their support of the market, and there was sufficient covering by rit traders later to regain all this loss. The market finally ended dull and barvit steady at about last night-closing quotations. The volume of business to-day was very small,

There was an absence of any important developments in the general situation to influence much new business either way. The week-end satistics are about as expected, and outside speculative or investment buying continues very small, in the meantime, discussion among the nalls, with regard to currishing production of goods, owing to unsatisfactory business at present priors, and the un-resoluted working basis continues, but the trader is not expecting any general concerted movement to be adopted.

LIVE STOCK MARKET.
